

ART IN THE ARCTIC

THE ARCTIC
A LIFETIME
EXPERIENCE

A CIRCUMPOLAR DISCOVERY

Capture your travel moments through art

One Ocean Expeditions is proud to launch their most comprehensive Art in the Arctic program for 2018. By connecting the Canadian Arctic and Norwegian Arctic through art One Ocean Expeditions offers a unique angle of expedition cruising. Through artistic impressions from internationally renowned artists, guests learn how to view remote areas of the world from an artistic perspective, bringing culture, wildlife and history of the region to a deeper understanding.

One Ocean Expeditions is dedicated to the ocean and the complex marine ecosystems found in the Earth's Polar Regions. As we know, there is only one ocean, interspersed by a series of large islands. The Art in the Arctic program offers an exclusive opportunity to artistically bridge these diverse environments only found above the Arctic Circle, at the top of the world.

High profile artists lead unique Artist in Residence programming through workshops onboard and in the field, in presentations and through personal conversations. This outstanding opportunity to travel alongside world leading explorers is further enhanced by select One Ocean Expeditions experts in history, geology, geography, biology, and ornithology.

Join renowned Canadian artist and Fellow of the Royal Canadian Geographical Society, Cory Trépanier on his expedition to the Arctic in 2018!

ONE OCEAN EXPEDITIONS ARTISTS IN RESIDENCE & ARTISTIC PARTNERSHIPS:

CORY TRÉPANIÉ

Canadian artist Cory is an oil painter, filmmaker and explorer with a passion for capturing Canada's incredible wilderness on canvas. Cory is known for his extensive expeditions across the Arctic in his search for new inspiration. Guests will enjoy Cory's in-depth knowledge about the north and his expertise at capturing the stunning landscape in his paintings.

DAVID MCEOWN

For half a decade, David has played an integral part in the Artist in Residence role with One Ocean Expeditions. As a landscape and wildlife artist David shares his knowledge about the medium of watercolour he gathered for the past 25 years, exploring and expressing many of this earth's disappearing wilderness areas. His paintings from Antarctica to the North Pole are represented in collections worldwide.

BRUCE PEARSON

For the past 20 years Bruce's work as a painter and printmaker has largely involved private commissions from museums, institutions and individuals. An avid ornithologist and passionate about the Polar Regions, Bruce is a key Artist in Residence with One Ocean Expeditions. Guests benefit from his excellent expertise about the polar wildlife and how to capture them in paintings.

INUIT ARTISTS

The art scene of Canada's Arctic communities is a flourishing industry. One Ocean Expeditions is known to be an active supporter of art exchange. Through strong relationships, One Ocean Expeditions is able to work with the most well respected and knowledgeable Inuit artists to join their cruises and share ancient art traditions with guests.

CHRIS CRAN

Chris Cran is a Canadian artist and Fellow of the RCGS, gaining an international reputation through his unique art compositions. His art pieces are displayed in the National Gallery of Canada and have been reviewed in art magazines such as The New York Times. Chris' talent, using visual tricks to capture the moment, are a fantastic benefit for guests when discovering the world through an artistic perspective.

FRIENDS OF THE SCOTT POLAR RESEARCH INSTITUTE

Friends of the Scott Polar Research Institute carefully select high achieving artists to join One Ocean Expeditions on select departures to the Polar Regions. This unique OOE sponsorship allows artists to gather inspirations they can then share through their medium with a broad audience, showcasing the fascination of the Polar Regions.
